Opening the Road - Keila V. Dawson 2021-01-26

"Hungry? Check the Green Book. Tired? Check the Green Book. Sick? Check the Green Book." In the late 1930s when segregation was legal and Black Americans couldn't visit every establishment or travel everywhere they wanted to safely, a New Yorker named Victor Hugo Green decided to do something about it. Green wrote and published a guide that listed places where his fellow Black Americans could be safe in New York City. The guide sold like hot cakes! Soon customers started asking Green to make a guide to help them travel and vacation safely across the nation too. With the help of his mail carrier co-workers and the African American business community, Green's guide allowed millions of African Americans to travel safely and enjoy traveling across the nation. In the first picture book about the creation and distribution of The Green Book, author Keila Dawson and illustrator Alleanna Harris tell the story of the man behind it and how this travel guide opened the road for a safer, more equitable America.

This international bestseller is a sweeping portrait of motherhood, loss, and redemption in war-torn Sarajevo. I Love You with All My Butt! - Martin Bruckner 2017-04-04

We just can't get enough of the funny stuff kids say. We share our own children's gems with friends and family. If we're smart, we write down these scraps of accidental poetry. And we turn them into books. Martin Bruckner is an artist and father who not only recorded the sayings of his daughter, Harper, but used each as the inspiration for a work of art. After posting them on social media, Bruckner became the artist that other parents sought out to transform their own children's funny words into artwork. Collected here are 100 mini-posters of pure delight, a marriage of the children's surprising wisdom and the artist's nimble style, plus the occasional backstory that amplifies both. Every parent will recognize the spirited declarations of personality—"I'm training to be a wolf." The endearing mangling of language—"Mommy, I don't need your mouth to talk to me right now." The creative mixing of metaphors—"I need a tissue to wipe my feelings." Those precious, heartbreaking outbursts without guile or filters—"I only love you at the toy store." Illustrated with sweetness and whimsy, each is a window into the irresistible innocence of childhood, even if the sentiment is "Dad, please wipe the bum of this beautiful princess."

Spiritual Healing for Children in Foster Care - Ruby Judah 2012-04

This children's book is a motivational and spiritual book for children and teenagers. It was written to help inspire and heal the children that come from the dysfunctional juvenile dependency court and family court systems in the United States of America. This system hurts both dysfunctional families and non-dysfunctional families. While there is real child abuse going on within families, there are also families that are falsely accused of breaking child abuse laws. It is no wonder state and federal judges have stated, "... our youth is out of control in this country, and it is chilling." If our society does not do something to help these children and families, we will lose the battle with our children. Spiritual Healing for Children in Foster Care seeks to help those children that are feeling lost, alone, isolated, abandoned, and frightened. They may be feeling different from other children when they are not, or feeling suicidal because they feel like nobody cares about them. Author Ruby Judah wants these children to know that they are loved and cared about. This book was also written to help children heal from their past hurts, to help them feel loved, and to give them inspiration, motivation, and a healthy outlook on life. They don't have to live in darkness; they can live with the light shining in their lives. They can be the light of the world and shine brightly like stars.
